THESA Survey, May 2009

Introduction

There is currently very little information available about the state of Home Economics Education in British Columbia. The intent of this survey is to gather information that will support Home Economics Education in a variety of ways - for example, within a particular school, for proposing improvements to Home Economics Education with post-secondary institutions, etc. THESA, the Teachers of Home Economics Specialist Association, is interested in determining how many teachers teach Home Economics and Home Economics-related courses, what the needs are for professional development, the supply and demand for Home Economics teachers, how many students enrol in Home Economics courses and the composition of those classes, and what challenges are faced in our workplace.

By completing this survey, you and other Home Economics teachers in BC's public schools will be assisting THESA in forming a more complete "picture" of the state of Home Economics Education in the province that will be of interest to the BCTF, to BCTF members who teach in elective areas, to post-secondary institutions, and to our government.

If you are a retired Home Economics teacher, you do not need to complete this survey.

Jenny Garrels, President
Teachers of Home Economics Specialist Association
